

No Direct Demands By Il Duce Believe Way To Accord With France Open

By The Associated Press.

Hope mounted in Europe today that the hurricane it feared over Italian claims on France would end as a zephyr, as a result of Premier Mussolini's speech yesterday celebrating the 20th anniversary of Fascism.

Although Il Duce sounded several belligerent notes in attacks on the Democracies and emphasis on force as Fascist policy, it was believed he had opened a way for peaceful settlement of the French-Italian issue.

He made no demands nor did he clearly outline Italy's "natural aspirations." He merely named the problems—Djibouti, Tunisia and the Suez Canal.

Signs of Italian readiness to negotiate appeared in Rome as a consequence of the speech and Fascist newspaper comment was conciliatory.

In Paris, reconciliation was believed to have been brought a step nearer reality. Informed quarters feared, however, there still might be tall obstacles if Mussolini later makes demands—such as for territorial concessions—which Premier Daladier has said France could not and would not grant.

Expect Premier To Reply

Sources close to the premier expected him to reply to Mussolini either directly through usual diplomatic channels asking just what Italy wants, or by putting the question in a speech to be broadcast Wednesday.

In London, British Prime Minister Chamberlain, faced an increasingly impatient House of Commons without having united the "anti-aggressor" nations in a "halt Hitler" bloc. Adding to the difficulties facing his efforts to pacify Europe were reports of dissension within his cabinet, supposedly over extending British military commitments to eastern Europe.

After a two-month lull that followed Nationalist Generalissimo Francisco Franco's conquest of Catalonia, the Spanish war-front again became active.

Decide On Surrender

The Nationalists launched an offensive on the southern front as negotiations for surrender of Madrid broke down. The Republicans made virtually no resistance and, border reports said, the Madrid National Defense council had decided to surrender the capital despite the collapse of peace talks.

The Swiss government, which last week charged mines along Switzerland's frontiers and called up reinforcements from the reserves, took further measures to bolster Swiss border defenses by prolonging the annual training period of reserve border forces from one to two weeks.

A Slovak announcement at Bratislava said Hungarian and Slovak troops had renewed their border fighting yesterday despite an official truce. Negotiations to settle the dispute opened, however, in Budapest, where a joint committee gathered to fix a boundary.

In Shanghai, Chinese reported that a "brilliant counter-thrust" had pushed back Japanese troops northwest of Nanchang. They said 1,000 Japanese had been killed in the battle for Nanchang, once an important Chinese air base in Kiangsi province, and acknowledged 500 Chinese were killed.

At Hankow, however, the Japanese army headquarters said the city had been captured.

Claims Chance Given France

BERLIN, March 27.—(P)—Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz, German foreign office semi-official mouthpiece, declared today that "it will be difficult" for France to remain unyielding to Premier Mussolini's "common-sense" demands.

In comment on yesterday's address by the Italian premier the organ said:

"Il Duce gave France a chance to clean the slate in its relations with Italy in a fair manner corresponding to the rights and interests of the new empire."

"It will be difficult for France to remain unyielding towards such common-sense demands or even to make them a matter of any kind of political trading."

Admitted To Hospital With A Head Injury

Ben Banner, 44, of Stover, was admitted to the Bothwell hospital early Sunday morning, suffering from a head injury, said to have been received in an altercation with another resident of Stover. The trouble, it was said, started over a card game.

Banner left the hospital this afternoon. No arrests were made in Stover over the affair.

Larger Income To Americans

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(P)—Americans had a larger income in January and February, the commerce department said today, than during the same months in 1938. In addition, living costs were three per cent lower this year.

In February alone, the department announced, income of all individuals in the nation from wages, dividends, interest, and relief payments totaled $5,090,000,000. This was $115,000,000 more than in February, 1938.

A seasonally adjusted income index prepared by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce declined from 84.2 in January to 83.9 in February. The index is based on 1929 statistics, represented by 100. The 1938 low was 80.4, recorded in May; the high mark, 84.4, was reached in December.

Seasonal increases were noted in trade and industry by the Federal Reserve Board. In February, it said, industrial activity held at the January rate, but increased during the first three weeks in March.

House Votes For An Inquiry On The WPA

No Further Action Required To Make It Effective

WASHINGTON, March 27.—By a bi-partisan vote, the house directed its appropriations committee today to make a "thorough investigation" of the WPA.

Speaker Bankhead announced the inquiry had been ordered by a vote of 352 to 27.

The investigation resolution, by Rep. Cox (D-Ga.), requires no further action of the senate or President to make it effective.

Cox assured the house it would not be a "political investigation" and that there would be "no attempt to whitewash anybody or anything."

Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, the Republican leader, also supported the inquiry with the declaration that "the American people demand that this agency be conducted in a fair and impartial manner."

Charge Political Activities

Martin said political activities in the WPA "were an outstanding issue in my congressional district last election."

He charged that his election opponent was "picked by the high command here in Washington," and said persons on relief in his district "were obliged to sign pledge cards endorsing my opponent."

The resolution does not stipulate what fields the appropriations committee shall study. It requests the committee to submit a report to the house during the present congress, along with any recommendations for legislation it may deem advisable.

In addition to considering the WPA investigation, the house worked today upon District of Columbia legislation.

The WPA inquiry was proposed by Rep. Cox (D-Ga.) and approved subsequently by the powerful house rules committee. Cox's resolution, authorizing the house appropriations committee to make the investigation, did not require senate nor presidential approval.

Rayburn announced an appropriation bill for the labor department would be called up Wednesday and the controversial relief appropriation on Thursday. The latter involves President Roosevelt's request for an additional $150,000,000 to finance the WPA until July 1.

Upholds Right To Tax Salaries of Federal Men

Supreme Court In Decision On Power of States

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The supreme court approved part of President Roosevelt's tax recommendations to congress today by holding that a state can tax the income of an employee of a federal agency and that the federal government can tax the income of a state employee.

The decision, on attempts by New York and Utah to tax the income of federal employees, was described by government attorneys as "one of the most momentous in many a year."

The court specifically overruled previous decisions holding that the federal and state governments could not tax the "means and instrumentalities" of the other.

Justice Stone, who delivered the majority decision in the New York case, said the court had refused "to imply a constitutional prohibition of federal income taxation of salaries of state employees" in last year's New York port authority decision.

"We perceive no basis for a difference in result," he continued, "whether the taxes income be salary or some other form of compensation, or whether the taxpayer be an employee or an officer of either a state or the national government, or of its instrumentalities."

"In no case is there basis for the assumption that any such tangible or certain economic burden is imposed on the government concerned as would justify a court's declaring that the taxpayer is clothed with the implied constitutional tax immunity of the government by which he is employed."

Justice Stone delivered the decision in the New York case and Justice Black read the opinion in the Utah case.

While holding that Utah had the power under the federal constitution, the court returned the case appealed from that state to the Utah Supreme court. This court will determine whether the state income tax law exempts the federal employee sought to be taxed.

Justices Butler and McReynolds dissented in the New York case.

Approve Douglas For High Bench

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(P)—The senate judiciary committee unanimously approved today President Roosevelt's nomination of William O. Douglas to be an associate justice of the supreme court.

The nomination now goes to the senate, where confirmation appears assured.

The sandy-haired, 40-year-old Douglas, now chairman of the Securities Commission, was appointed to succeed Associate Justice Louis D. Brandeis, 82, who resigned recently.

Douglas was Mr. Roosevelt's fourth appointee to the high bench.

The nominee attended today's committee meeting in order to meet the members.

Offers Version of Fatal Crash

LOS ANGELES, March 27.—(P)—Andrew Torbet, driver of an interurban bus, which was in a collision with a sedan yesterday, resulting in the deaths of eight persons, told police today, "I'm not sure how it happened, it was so quick."

"The sedan was coming toward me," he told Detective Ralph Stites. "Suddenly the rear end of the sedan swung around, and the right side of the sedan smashed into the front of the bus. I guess the sedan skidded."

Those killed, all occupants of the sedan, were:

Meyer Minkus, 70; Mrs. Nellie Minkus, 25, their son; Fannie Minkus, 18, their daughter; Mona Lee Minkus, 3, daughter of Isadore; Frank Garron, 21, nephew of Meyer and a senior at the University of Chicago; Lina Rubin, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rubin; Gorman Rapaport, 13.

Eleven of the bus' passengers were injured, none critically.

Work To Ease Tax Burden

Many Complaints On Penalties Have Been Made

By WILLIAM B. ARDERY

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(P)—Proposals to help "the little fellow" collect social security taxes and ease the income tax burden on "the big fellow" were advanced today by several senators.

Senator Byrnes (D-S. C.), said he was working on legislation to simplify the unemployment tax schedule. Many small business men had been uncertain, he said, whether they were subject to the taxes. Others had failed to keep records.

Reporting numerous complaints the treasury had imposed tax penalties in these cases which often amounted to "driving a man out of business," Byrnes said he would seek to refund the penalties.

A suggestion for reducing taxes on large incomes came from Senator George (D-Ga.). These levies now range up to 75 per cent on incomes over $50,000, and George said they tended to retard capital investment.

Some members of the Senate Finance committee said even if taxes are revised in an effort to encourage business, the immediate effect would be largely psychological. Taxes under a new revenue measure would not be paid until 1941.

There was additional support, meanwhile, for Secretary Morgenthau's suggestion the schedule of old age pension taxes be lightened for the period 1940-42.

Senator Byrnes, who has submitted legislation to broaden existing social security benefits, said he believed the existing tax of one per cent on employees and one per cent on employers through 1942 would provide ample revenue.

Senator Burke (D-Neb.), said Morgenthau's proposal was "a very sensible idea."

Weakley Will Offer Bill On Police Control

Bitterness Over Proposal Made By Governor

JEFFERSON CITY, March 27.—William B. Weakley, Democratic representative from Gov. Lloyd C. Stark's home county of Pike, said today he would introduce this afternoon the governor-recommended bill to establish state control of the Kansas City police.

The announcement ended four days of intense speculation as to who would toss the measure in the hopper after Stark told the assembly in a personally delivered message last Thursday that police home rule in Kansas City had been a "ghastly failure."

"I did not get this bill from the governor," said Weakley. "I am introducing it pursuant to his recommendation."

"I do this for the compelling reason that I feel the declared right of this state that it should have a voice in the control of the metropolitan police departments within this state, is sound public policy, especially so in the face of admitted abuses existent in Kansas City."

For Bi-Partisan Board

Weakley said his measure would set up a bi-partisan board of four members, as suggested by Stark. Policemen would be selected under a merit system and the number employed could not exceed the number on the force January 1 of this year.

The bill would eliminate the "technical defect" in the law which caused the state supreme court in 1932 to overthrow the state control system in effect in Kansas City, Weakley said.

"The state has had this control for some 75 years in all metropolitan areas including Kansas City until 1932," he pointed out.

"Therefore the enactment into law and enforcement of this right is neither discriminator or unfair."

The Pike county representative, a supporter of Governor Stark in several battles on the house floor this session, took notice of the tremendous bitterness aroused by the executive's bombshell among Jackson county members affiliated with the T. J. Pendergast organization in Kansas City and their friends.

"That this measure is presented at a time when passions, prejudices and bitter resentments, in all their unreasoning ugliness, are much in evidence, does not change the essential and fundamental fact that this state has the right to exercise such control by legislative action," he said in a prepared statement.

'Sks Fair Consideration

"I do hope we will be able to consider this matter judicially, fairly, with a calmness unusual in this body. While that may be difficult, we should view the matter solely as a matter of law, solely as a matter of right, solely as a matter of correcting abuses that have reached a point such as to compel consideration here."

Weakley said he planned to read the statement to the house. Despite this plea, observers freely predicted introduction of the measure would touch off a bitter intra-party struggle among the Democrats with Pendergast

Grocers In Trip To Food Show

Aboard a special train over the Missouri Pacific Sunday one hundred and fifty-seven passengers composing members of the Sedalia Independent Grocers, some with their wives, families, or friends, made a trip to and from the Hollywood Food Fair in exhibition hall in the Municipal Auditorium in Kansas City, and enjoyed several hours there.

Displays, demonstration with a taste here and there of various foods, or drinks, had crowds thronged about the numerous booths that were decorated in gay colors.

A floor show was presented afternoon and night that proved highly entertaining and was much enjoyed.

Over a hundred of the trippers on the special were from Sedalia, others being from Smithton, La Monte, Warsaw, Versailles, Cole Camp and nearby towns.

Free bus transportation was provided the Sedalia delegation from the station to the auditorium.

Leaving Sedalia at 1:10 p. m., the train pulled into the union station at Kansas City a couple of hours later and en route refreshments were served.

On the return trip after leaving Kansas City at 10:30 p. m., well filled lunch boxes were passed containing a generous amount of food including sandwiches, potato chips, cottage cheese, jelly-roll, and other eatables that were readily devoured by the recipients, who also were supplied with refreshing drinks.

Returning the train reached Sedalia at 12:35 o'clock this morning.

'A Nice War Would Be Good for Business'

Somewhat you never actually find the fellow who says, and sticks by it, that "a nice little war would be good for business."

Such sentiments seem to be in the back of some people's minds. You hear such sentiments implied, but you never pin the remark down to any single responsible person who is willing to stick to it.

Just how good for business another war would be is indicated by the tax proposal just launched in the Senate, the most sweeping tax measure ever to gain majority approval in that body. Fifty senators are reported to have signed their approval, though it is likely that many of them never read it.

The bill would provide "steeply graduated income and other taxes," mounting to 98.9 per cent. Up to $4,000, the taxes would be held down to 4.5 per cent, but for $10,000 incomes, taxes would reach 26.4 per cent, and for $20,000 incomes taxes would be up to 51.2 per cent. And if any person's or any corporation's war profits rose to $10,000,000 in a year, the government would get $9,890,210 or 98.9 per cent of it.

Nobody can object to the principle that at a time when many men are made to give their lives, other men should be made to give their money, any or all of it.

But such a proposal runs into interesting complications. It leaves out of account state and local taxes. For instance, one calculation is that a $500,000 income in New York would not only all be taken by the government, but the man who received it would owe $26,130 in addition. A New Yorker with $100,000 income would have $2,030 left after paying federal and state taxes, and one who made $1,000,000 would owe state and federal governments $61,130 more than his entire taxable income. He might even have to dig down into the barrel for a couple of gilt-edged bonds.

What corporations would do to build up reserves against future emergencies under such a regime is not stated.

It is unlikely that such a bill will pass, despite its enthusiastic reception. But it is well that it has been introduced.

It will show to any lackwit who has any lingering idea of profiting out of a "nice little war," that the pickings are going to be mighty slim the next time, if there are any pickings at all.

Probably the only pickings during and after any other war in which the United States engages will be at the bones of free and democratic institutions.

Looking Backward

Forty Years Ago

The Sorosis club met this afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. P. McCluney, and included on the program was a paper on "Byron and His Contemporaries," read by Mrs. Heard.

Nile Ritchie, civil engineer on the Katy, went to Pleasant Green this morning.

Nearly 60 persons attended the informal masquerade social given at Grange hall by ladies of the neighborhood, Saturday night.

Frank Faurote, a former resident of Sedalia, is now in the city, stopping over on his way to Long Branch, New Jersey, to attend the biggest shoot ever held in the world. Mr. Faurote, who is considered a crack shot, will represent the state of Texas in the meet, in which there is nearly $50,000 in prizes offered.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — At a recent meeting of Young Democratic Club leaders in Richmond, Va., it was blatantly apparent that two presidential candidates are already openly advancing their cause for the 1940 nomination. They are Jack Garner of Texas and Paul McNutt of Indiana.

The Garner booster is Earle B. Mayfield, Jr., son of former Senator Mayfield of Texas. He was amply supplied with funds, made it known that Richmond was only a way-station for him on an extensive tour of the country. He is attending every state convention of the Young Democratic Clubs to enlist Garner support.

All of this is done with Garner approval. When Mayfield came to Washington recently, Garner staged a private luncheon for him in the office of the Secretary of the Senate, Colonel Halsey.

McNutt's Young Men

Even more gilded is the bankroll of the McNutt followers. They had the largest delegation at the Richmond convention, with more money than they could spend. Their objective was to get Young Democratic leaders to promise McNutt a place on the program at the national convention in Pittsburgh August 10. They got what they wanted—but could have had it without the effort, for YD officials make a point of giving a spot on the programs to every presidential candidate.

The McNutt delegation at Richmond made it plain that they are out to make a big splurge in Pittsburgh. They intend to send a delegation of 2,000 Hoosiers on a series of special trains, to make the Smoky City rub its eyes at the approach of the Great McNutt.

They boast a war chest of $1,500,000 for the McNutt candidacy, money allegedly raised by a 2 per cent payroll assessment on all state office-holders in Indiana.

Note—Young Democrats believe that Jim Farley wants just one thing and he wants it bad—second place on the Democratic ticket. If Jim can be nominated Vice President, he doesn't much care who the Number One man is—Garner, Hull, McNutt, Barkley, Clark, Hopkins—but he prefers 69-year-old Hull.

Made For Love

Congressman Frank Boykin of Mobile, Alabama, wears his motto stamped inside his hat: "Everything is made for love."

But the other day a New York Negro, with two white women, was lobbying for the relief appropriation in the Capital corridors and strolled into the House restaurant on the side reserved for Members of Congress.

The head waiter tried to show them out. But they protested that they had as much right there as anyone. Sitting at a nearby table, Boykin heard the dispute, took a penknife from his pocket, opened it and approached the Negro.

"What's all this fuss about?" said Boykin, toying with the penknife conspicuously. "Don't you know you can't eat here?"

"I can't," said the Negro; "why can't I?"

"Because," said Boykin, turning the blade about in his hands, "with your head in one room and your body in the other, you wouldn't be able to eat. Do you understand?"

There was no more argument.

Reorganization

It was significant that several Senators who voted for Reorganization last year turned around and voted against the President and for the Wheeler amendment this year. The Wheeler amendment required congressional approval for reshuffling of government bureaus and would have pretty well stymied the bill.

Reason for this right-about-face was the Purge.

Take, for instance, Senator "Cotton Ed" Smith, whom Roosevelt opposed in the South Carolina primary last summer. Smith voted with Roosevelt and against the Wheeler amendment last year, but with Wheeler and against Roosevelt this year. His explanation was given informally but very bluntly on the electric subway when he saw Mrs. Alben Barkley, wife of the Democratic floor leader, seated in the car and inquired if he could ride with her.

"Certainly, Senator, but I noticed you didn't ride with us on the Wheeler amendment vote."

"No," bellowed Smith, "and I don't ever intend to ride on anything that man Roosevelt is for."

It was two Carolinians, however, who gave Roosevelt his final victory on Reorganization. In the House it was a North Carolinian, brainy Representative Lindsay Warren, who put across Reorganization, and in the Senate it was the canny South Carolinian strategy of Senator James Byrnes which won the day.

Byrnes does not always see eye to eye with the White House—particularly on labor and relief issues—but when he does and is in command of Administration forces he seldom loses.

Coster-Musica Mottoes

Among his various talents the late master-swindler Coster-Musica had a penchant for mottoes.

When federal investigators went into the McKesson-Robbins offices in Bridgeport, Conn. to examine the files where Coster Musica kept the records of non-existent drug stocks, they were startled to find over the file case this printed apothem: "Don't stick your nose in other people's business."

But this ironic touch was capped by another motto over Coster-Musica's personal desk: "Don't ask too many questions. Your friends trust you, and your enemies won't believe you anyway."

Three thousand disabled soldiers of the World War still are being treated in British hospitals. Great Britain supplies about 4,000 artificial limbs to war pensioners in a single year.

The highest marriage rate in Europe is in Germany, with more than 10 marriages per 1,000 of population. Poland ranks second with 8.3; Holland and Italy tie for third with 7.6; England fourth with 7, and France fifth with 6.9.

In spite of wars and threats of wars, dictators and threats of dictators, taxes and unemployment, spring is nearly here. It will do you good to get out in the open and see how insignificant the vanities of men and politicians who are powerless to check the turn of the seasons, create the food that the world must eat, control the coming of the new leaves, the grass, the calves, the lambs and the pigs. How much more important is the work of a good farmer than all the bombast of the mightiest dictators or the mouthings of the noisiest politicians.

American Foreign Policy—

What Is Is, and Why—

Being Good Neighbor to Latin America Means Role of Friend, Not Boss, Says U. S.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of five special columns by Bruce Catton, NEA Service correspondent in Washington, telling, for the first time, just what U. S. foreign policy is today—and why.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Perhaps the best way to explain just what America's "good neighbor" policy in Latin America means is to describe a few of the things which it does not mean.

First of all, it does not mean that the United States is trying to set itself up as the boss of the Latin republics.

The Pan-American conference idea is not new. John Quincy Adams was the first American President to send delegates to such a conference and the first regular periodic conference was held in Washington in 1889, when James G. Blaine was secretary of state.

For a full half century, the essentials of a democratic ordering of foreign relations in the new world have been in evolution.

In 1933 six or seven Latin republics adopted a treaty expressing the principle of non-recognition of territorial changes made by force, in respect to the American continents. Later, the United States and all the rest of the 21 new world republics adhered to it.

At Buenos Aires, in 1936, the 21 nations adopted a statement asserting that the American nations proclaimed their absolute juridical equality and their unqualified respect for their respective sovereignties—which, in plain English, means that they agreed that all of them were equal at law and that each nation was fully independent and boss in its own house.

With this statement came a declaration that any act which disturbs the peace of the new world concerns all new world nations.

Common Concern To All

At Lima, a few months ago, the delegates re-stated and amplified these principles. They endorsed the removal of trade barriers and adopted a "declaration of continental solidarity," declaring that a threat to the integrity of any new world nation was a matter of common concern to all and agreeing to consult in case the "peace, security or territorial integrity"

For generations, South America has sent foodstuffs and other raw materials to Europe. That's only natural.

The United States can't buy those things in any great quantity, because it produces them at home. It certainly cannot regard it as an insult if a Latin nation sells its produce to a totalitarian power and buys manufactured goods from that power in return. In fact, the State Department would regard it as a calamity if that sort of thing were not taking place.

What this government does ask is that such deals be not exclusive; that the process of normal exchange of goods remain a process of exchanges and be not a process of political pressure or a threat of other countries.

It objects to seeing any overseas country mobilize its nationals in South America for the purposes of such pressure—and, in this objection, it is sustained by a resolution adopted at the Lima conference.

The Good Neighbor Defended
If the good neighbor policy is not an attempt to control South America or to monopolize its trade, then, what is it?

Primarily, the good neighbor policy is an attempt to promote better understanding and to improve trade. The two go hand in hand, to an extent; and they take with them the concept of a common plan for new world defense out of which come such things as the current proposal to help the Latin nations arm.

The defense angle is important. Back of it lies the belief that democracies can prosper only in a relatively stable and prosperous world. The constant sequence of war, war-threats, and the preparation for war is an eternal threat to the democratic ideal.

Hence, to defend American democracy, it is necessary to keep the new world at peace—and in the present state of the world that can best be done by working out a common plan for the defense of the new world and buttressing it with the proper armaments.

If that is done, if the peace of the new world is kept inviolate, if the common acceptance of the principle of peaceful settlement of disputes is firmly established, and if the normal, peaceful flow of trade is revived—

Then the outlook for democracy in the new world is bright. . . . And the good neighbor policy, as one angle of America's general foreign policy, is vindicated by its fruits.

SERIAL STORY

'MRS. DOC' BY TOM HORNER

COPYRIGHT, 1939,
NEA SERVICE, INC.

The characters and situations in this story are wholly fictional.

Yesterday, at a party at Alan's, Eric reveals his worry about his dam. Later, to himself, he confesses his worry about Emily, another man's wife. He is in love with Emily!

CHAPTER IX

WORK brought little peace to Eric Kane. Even at the dam, where a hundred men toiled like galley slaves to carry out his orders, he could not forget Emily. "Looks like we'll make it, Chief," Baker was at his elbow. They stood beside the engineers' office, high above the diversion dam, looking down on the gravel trucks, edging out along the high trestle, dumping their load of stone, then rumbling back to the gravel dumps, piled high along the railroad track. Unmindful of danger, men walked at the edge of the trestle, guiding the gravel into chutes, to spill it over the dam.

"Pay those men out there double," Eric ordered curtly. "And keep them there. Any reports on the weather?"

"Temperature rising steadily," Baker answered. "But we can stand that, if we don't get rain. If the rain holds off for another week—and it may—all that snow will be melted and past the dam. If it rains, and rains hard, it's going to be just too bad."

"Eric—telephone!" an assistant shouted from the office door.

Emily's voice came to him over the wire, giving him a pleasant thrill. "You're coming down for the Country Club dinner-dance tonight, Eric. Alan and I won't take 'No' for an answer. You've been up at that old dam all week. I'm having a few in for cocktails, then we'll all go together. Please do, Eric."

"I can't leave the job, Emily," Eric fought the desire to shout that he would be there, with her, whatever the cost. "I really can't get away tonight." He had no right to the happiness being with her, dancing with her would bring.

"I'm begging, Eric. I've counted on you so." She sounded like a small child.

"All right. I'll try to make it. But don't be disappointed if I don't get there." He could hear Emily laughing, delightedly.

"Fine," she said. "We'll wait for you." She knew he would be there. And Eric knew it too.

CONFLICTING thoughts raced through Eric's mind as he drove toward town. He tried to think of the dam—remember to tell Baker about that low creek bank up stream—if water backs up there it will cut off the highway—but the motor of his car sang "Emily, Emily" and her face danced out beyond the headlights. And Alan. He was so big, so

Fellowship of Prayer

The Ministry of Pain

Monday, March 27 . . . think it not strange concerning the fiery trial which is to try you . . . Read I Peter 4:8-13.

Suffering and sorrow have many roots. They grow out of ignorance and sin and weakness; they are the other side of our capacities for happiness. The harp strings of our being could never make the music of gladness were they not also responsive to the touch of pain, any kind of pain.

But seen clearly through its shadows, pain is also love's instrument, the servant of a divine kindness. It stabs us awake to danger, it completes remedial measures, it evokes the noblest qualities of the soul. The power of the soul to endure, pity, sympathy, courage and love attend it as a shining train. All pain has redemption at the heart of it. A poet once asked God to take away pain and heard His answer:

"Shall I take away love that redeems with a price
And smiles with its loss?
Can ye spare from your lives

that would cling unto mine
The Christ on His cross?"

Prayer: Lord of the Searching Touch, reveal the ministry of Thy love to all who suffer, even in their pain. Bless all doctors and nurses. Guide the searchers who seek the secret of our pains and strive to heal them. Give us courage to bear the sufferings we can not cure. Keep us from complaint and rebellion, and by Thy grace may we win from pain some new purity of soul. Amen.

Says Wages Too Low In South

ATLANTA, Ga., March 27.—(AP)

—Wage-hour Administrator Elmer F. Andrews, speaking in a deep south area where President Roosevelt held most workers' pay was "far too low," suggested today that manufacturers "don't play with fire" in the labor standards act.

He told Atlanta Rotarians the act was intended as neither labor nor business legislation, but would aid both.

"It was and is broad social legislation," he said, "designed to help all of us to a better, more prosperous and happier national life. I am well aware that the degree of help we may expect from it will depend upon the vigor with which it is enforced. Enforcement is our job."

Andrews reported at present "we are less interested in putting non-complying manufacturers in jail, however, than in winning for the workers every benefit to which they are lawfully entitled."

He pointed out all interstate commerce from all states would bear a like the increase from the current 44-hour week. 25-cent-an-hour basic provisions in six years to 40 hours and 40 cents.

President Roosevelt spoke out at industrial Gainesville, Ga., a year ago, prior to enactment of the wage-hour bill for higher pay scales in the lower south as an aid in establishing new industries.

"The purchasing power of the millions of Americans in this whole area is far too low," he said. "Most men and women who work for wages in this whole area get wages which are far too low."

A woman of the Ainu race of northern Japan must never pronounce the name of her husband. To do so is supposed to subtract something from his life.

In Scotland, workmen have been painting on the Forth bridge for more than 40 years. When the entire surface is finished, it is time to begin over again.

half angrily. "Alan said for you to go home with me, and you'll do just that, and like it."

"I'm sure I shall, Eric," she said.

IN the car, she snuggled close to him. The perfume of her hair left him tingling.

"Brr! It's cold." She chattered her teeth in a mock chill. "Just the kind of weather you've been asking for. I hope you get your fill of it, Mr. Eric Kane, while the rest of us have to freeze."

"Heater button right there on the dash in front of you," Eric said shortly. A good offense is the best defense, he thought.

"All right, grumpy. Would your disposition improve any if I should grin? Really you don't have to be mean, just because I ask you to take me home."

"I'm not being mean. Just smart."

Emily made no answer. Instead she leaned against him, her head on his shoulder, and closed her eyes, a picture of perfect contentment.

Eric glanced from the road ahead of him to the tilt of her nose, as long eyelashes, the small curls around her forehead.

She hummed softly to herself, but said nothing more until they turned into the driveway of her home.

"Won't you come in?" she asked. "Alan should be here soon." She turned to leave the car.

"Don't go, Emily. Stay just a minute. I've something to tell you." Just as well get it over now, Kane, Eric told himself. Then she'll not be calling you to come down again. Make the break. It can't hurt her. She loves Alan. Tell her now; get it over.

"I'm going back up to the dam, Emily," Eric said seriously. "I won't be back. You and Alan have been wonderful to me, and I'll not forget. But this is goodbye."

She faced him, questioning. Why must she look like that? Why must she be so beautiful? He wanted to look away, but he couldn't.

"It just can't be like this. It isn't fair to Alan. He's the finest man I've ever known, Emily. And he's so great and honest and honorable that he thinks everyone else is that way too. I'm not. Alan saved my life. He'd do it again—even if he knew—"

"Even if he knew—what, Eric?" Her voice thrilled him.

"That I love you, Emily."

Somewhat she was in his arms, her face was close. Slowly, deliberately, Eric bent, kissed her lips.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Unreality" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday April 2, 1939.

Golden Text: Proverbs 30:8. "Remove far from me vanity and lies: give me neither poverty nor riches: feed me with food convenient for me."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Beloved, believe not every spirit, but try the spirits whether they are of God: because many false prophets are gone out into the world" (1 John 4:1).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Despite the hallowing influence of Truth in the destruction of error, must error still be immortal? Truth spares all that is true. If evil is real, Truth must make it so; but error, not Truth, is the author of the unreal, and the unreal vanishes, while all that is real is eternal" (p-474).

Franco's Troops Enter Madrid

PARIS, March 27.—The Four-nier News Agency said today a Spanish nationalist communique from Burgos announced that Generalissimo Francisco Franco's troops have entered the suburbs of Madrid.

The Agency said the communique reported a column of infantry had crossed the Toledo bridge which leads to the center of Madrid from the south.

It said the nationalists declared they were encountering only feeble resistance.

(The Associated Press had no direct information to substantiate this report.)

(It was considered possible that there was confusion between the Toledo bridge over the manzarez river on the southern edge of Madrid and the position known as Toledo bridgehead which an Associated Press dispatch from Burgos, the Spanish nationalist capital, said was the scene of fighting about 50 miles south of Madrid.)

British Not To Take Up Boycott

LONDON, March 27.—(P)—The British government today rejected suggestions of an economic boycott against Germany or attempts to apply league of nations penalties "with American co-operation" to halt German territorial expansion.

Richard Austen Butler, parliamentary under-secretary for foreign affairs, told the House of Commons that Britain was not considering the possibility of a boycott.

He also said that Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax was "unable to consider" steps which with American co-operation to apply economic sanctions against future disturbers of peace in Europe.

Says Rumania Holds Rights

LONDON, March 27.—(P)—Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today that Rumania "has not signed away her economic independence" in her new trade treaty with Germany.

"We must await developments before coming to any definite conclusion," Chamberlain added, however, in answer to a question put to him.

"The Rumanian government has informed the British government that the agreement contains no political clause and Rumania has not signed away her economic independence," the prime minister said.

He said the Bucharest government had informed Britain that the accord "is directed against no third party."

In this, it was believed, Chamberlain was referring to the British trade mission to Rumania which Oliver Stanley, president of the board of trade, announced just a week ago would be sent to Bucharest. The mission has not gone but Chamberlain was believed to have indicated that its purpose had not been threatened by Rumania's commitment to Germany.

Chamberlain made the announcement after Richard Austen Butler, parliamentary under-secretary for foreign affairs, had told Conservative Sir Alfred Knox that Britain was not considering the possibility of an economic boycott against Germany.

Rumania, Chamberlain said, informed Britain of trade negotiations with Germany began February 22 "and proceeded along normal lines until an agreement was signed."

The prime minister did not explain the apparent discrepancy between this statement and information the British government was reported to have received March 17 that Germany had addressed a virtual economic ultimatum to King Carol's country.

Charge Murder In Poison Case

KEENE, N. H., March 27.—(P)—Alfred Wojewick, 35, of Brattleboro, Vt., charged with murder in the "mistake" poison liquor deaths of a man and woman, paced his jail cell today as friends gathered for funeral services for the innocent victims.

Edgar Smart, 28, and Mrs. Julia Wheaton, 25, died Friday night in Ashuelot when County Solicitor John R. Goodnow said Wojewick confessed he intended for his estranged wife, Mrs. Lois Smart Wojewick, 20.

The solicitor quoted the distraught Brattleboro town employe as saying, after the warrants were served, "my regret now is that I will not get my wife back." Wojewick had been seeking a reconciliation with his pretty, blonde wife, but Goodnow said he planned to take his own life if she had died.

Goodnow said Wojewick confessed poisoning the liquor with a powder used for welding metal, which he had obtained from the Brattleboro highway department, and giving the bottle to Smart with instructions to give it to Mrs. Wojewick.

Friday night, Goodnow said, Wojewick found Mrs. Wheaton and his wife walking to the Smart home and offered them a ride. They accepted. While Mrs. Wheaton went in the house, later joining Smart in a drink, Mrs. Wojewick remained in the car talking with her husband.

Goodnow related that several days prior to the tragedy Mrs. Wojewick had refused a drink offered by her husband from another pint bottle after he told her, "If I can't get you one way, I will another."

Goodnow quoted Mrs. Wojewick as saying she tasted the liquor and found it so "awful" she poured it down a sink. The solicitor said a few drops found in the bottle were being analyzed.

Wild Flowers For Blanche Barrow

GARVIN, Okla., March 27.—There was a bowl of wild flowers in a crude table in a one-room log cabin awaiting Blanche Barrow as a welcome home today.

And her father, Matt Caldwell, 67, watched each incoming bus for the widow of Buck Barrow who walked out of Missouri's prison Saturday.

Caldwell met the buses yesterday, and when his daughter didn't arrive, said she was visiting in Denison, Tex., with relatives, hoping to obtain work in a beauty parlor.

Buck Barrow, his brother, Clyde, Bonnie Parker and Blanche Barrow shot their way out of a police trap at Platte City, Mo., in 1933. Buck Barrow was dying of wounds when he and Blanche were captured. She was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment, and won time credits for her "model prison record."

"She has a home with me from now on," said Caldwell. "If she gets back into the beauty parlor business again and leaves here, I'll go with her."

New Steps Are Under Way To Better Trade

United States in Bid To Get More From South

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON, March 27.—(AP)—Within the broad framework of the "good neighbor" policy, the Roosevelt administration is forging new tools to strengthen relations with South American republics.

Students of Pan-American affairs say these tools are designed to minimize European influences and place the United States in a more substantial economic position.

Considered of foremost importance is, in concluding the recent agreement with Brazil, the United States officially recognized a need to bolster the internal economy of some South American republics.

Under the reciprocal trade program, the state department has been primarily concerned heretofore with improving trade relations. This program provided no means, however, of aiding countries with internal, financial, or other difficulties.

In diplomatic circles it is reported Uruguay would like the United States to extend credit to bolster her exchange and Chile would like help on exchange problems and also credits.

Paraguay, already promised the aid of American economic experts, would like financial help, it is understood, on a public works program, assistance in creating a central bank like Brazil, and aid in developing agricultural and industrial programs.

Welcoming Trade Agreements
It is reported also the administration would welcome trade agreements with Mexico and Argentina, both of which now have substantial trade with Italy, Germany and Japan.

It is also considered possible some sort of agreement may be worked out with Nicaragua, a country of strategic importance in Panama Canal defense. President Anastasio Somoza is expected to visit President Roosevelt in May.

Promotion of more South American agreements probably will depend on Congress approving extension of $50,000,000 in gold credits provided by the Brazilian pact.

Brazil is in default on earlier loans from the United States. Unless she gets help from the United States, however, Brazil may obtain it from Germany, some say.

Another proposal is to open governmental shipyards and arsenals to construction of military weapons for South American countries. The ships could be built in private yards without any new legislation but could not be equipped with guns.

Advocates of the plan to help South America arms assert that under the Monroe Doctrine and as a result of last year's Pan-American conference at Lima, Peru, the United States is fully committed to a policy of Western hemisphere defense.

Suggests Pension of $75 To Aged

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Rep. Thorkelson (R-Mont) suggested a minimum old-age pension of $75 a month to the house ways and means committee today.

A payroll tax on employers and employees could raise half the funds, he said, and the federal government could meet the remainder of the cost from proceeds of a transaction tax.

A request that persons engaged in raising fur bearing animals be exempt from the social security act was proposed by Harold M. Marsh, representing the national Fox and Fur Breeding Association.

Two Added Field Divisions Of Revenue Bureau

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Two additional field divisions of the technical staff of the internal revenue bureau will be established April 1.

The western division will embrace Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico.

The southwestern division will take in Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma. The treasury announced today that this would increase to eight the number of zones in which facilities of the bureau will be available locally for the final settlement of income and estate tax cases.

Putting Shaw With In Shaw

Bernard Shaw

It was a case of putting "Shaw within Shaw" when a set of Bernard Shaw's works were used in a scene of "Pygmalion," film version of the famous Shaw stage hit, opening a three day run tomorrow at the Liberty Theatre with Leslie Howard starred.

The Shavian tomes adorn a bookcase in a set representing a bedroom in the house of Professor Higgins, played by Leslie Howard. This is the room in which the professor installs Wendy Hiller, the flower girl whom as an experiment he takes from the gutter and transforms into a lady.

Not only does the bedroom library include a set of Shaw's plays, but also a copy of his biography by Frank Harris.

Yankee Clipper Lands at Horta

BALTIMORE, March 27.—The flying boat Yankee Clipper landed at Horta, the Azores, at 8:07 eastern standard time today, 17 hours and 33 minutes out of Baltimore on a transatlantic flight over the route followed by the old American sailing clippers.

Pan-American Airways, which will inaugurate regular passenger service to Europe later in the summer, announced the Clipper's arrival in a brief bulletin from the ship. The time was slightly under the 18 hours estimated for the first leg of the flight.

Support 'Cash and Carry' Plan

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(P)—Strong administration support was reported in senate circles today to have been lined up for the proposal of Senator Pittman (D-Nev.) to expand the "cash and carry" provisions of the neutrality act.

Pittman has suggested munitions be sold to warring nations if they pay cash and transport them in their own ships. The present law, when invoked, forbids the sale of arms to belligerents, but lets them buy other provisions on a "cash and carry" basis.

The senate foreign relations committee, which Pittman heads, will discuss revision of the neutrality act on Wednesday. The administration is seeking greater discretion for the President than the present law allows.

In other phases of foreign relations, there were these week-end developments: Senator Borah (R-Idaho) declared in a radio address there was no reason for the United States to aid the European democracies.

The treasury announced a net total of $368,902,000 of foreign capital was sent to the United States for investment or safe-keeping.

Japan led in purchases of steel products and scrap iron in the United States last month. The Netherlands was second and Brazil third, the commerce department disclosed.

The Foreign Policy Association, a private research organization, said in a study of national defenses that United States sea power was the best guarantee against aggression in the western hemisphere.

Injuries In An Auto Wreck Prove Fatal

swerve to the left and in doing so lost control of the car. It went over the embankment, crashed through the timber and came to rest against a small tree, completely demolished. Some of the occupants were thrown from the car while others were trapped inside.

It was necessary for people who arrived on the scene a few minutes after, to chain up one of the doors to hold it open so those caught inside could get out.

Rushed To Hospitals

The injured people were rushed to the hospitals in Sedalia in the McLaughlin and Gillespie ambulances. The Ewing ambulance also made a trip to the wreck.

Medical attention was given the wreck victims by Dr. A. J. Campbell and Dr. John Carlisle.

An examination revealed Mrs. Taylor had died from a fracture of the skull and internal injuries. She also suffered a bruised right eye, and broken nose.

Troopers To Scene

Sergeant Paul E. Corl and Trooper Lester Estes of the state highway patrol and Willis A. Watts of the highway department, measured the distance of the wreck Sunday morning. They found the car had traveled 169 feet through the air after leaving the pavement, crashing through the trees, tearing away limbs and knocking over small trees, and after striking the ground, rolled and skidded twenty-seven feet through the timber.

The curve is fairly banked and a car leaving the concrete at the point where the Richards car catapulted into the air, it would shoot upwards like a skyrocket.

Shortly after the accident Clyde Paul, from the Emergency Red Cross Station at Flat Creek Inn, rushed to the scene, and in the meantime ambulances were called. He assisted in helping with the injured. Within a very few minutes persons heading for the Lake of the Ozarks gathered, and it was estimated more than two hundred persons were at the wreck scene. Through Sunday morning the highway at that point was partly blocked by people desiring to see the demolished automobile.

Eight Die When Plane Crashes And Takes Fire

3 a. m. It just had taken off into a north wind when it radioed: "Turn on lights. Returning to field."

The left motor was found 20 yards from the wreckage. The left wing was torn off. Part of the cabin was shorn away.

The pilot and co-pilot were thrown from the wreckage. The two passengers who escaped alive pulled off their safety belts and struggled from the plane just as it caught fire.

The bodies of the victims were slumped in the forward part of the ship. The hostess, Miss Louise Zarr, 25, Dallas, was at her post.

Miss Joan Allan, 35, an Evanston, Ill., nurse and one of the eight victims had "sensed a tragic death because of a terrible dream she had two weeks ago.

A friend, Miss Elena Gould, of Evanston, said a note was found in Miss Allan's room addressed to friends, Mr. and Mrs. William Baker of South Bend, Ind. It began:

"I am not expecting any accident, but in case one should occur these are my requests. Miss Allan's charred body and those of the seven other victims were pulled from the smoldering plane more than an hour after it crashed.

The ship was bound from Chicago to Dallas.

The crash was the first fatal to a passenger in the airline's history. Six company employees were killed December 23, 1936, in a test flight at Dallas.

Two of the victims, Ben Coplon and Barney G. Grossman, 37, brothers-in-law, were en route to the bedside of Coplon's wife, Ida, in a Houston, Tex., hospital. Coplon lived at Chicago, Grossman at Aurora, Ill.

Others killed were R. T. Bate, Denver; Mrs. Georgia Sheldon of Omaha; Ferim Cairo, Mexico City and Mrs. E. Hinckley, Port Isabel, Tex.

Charles Beard, vice president in charge of traffic for Braniff, praised the "skillful handling" of the plane by Seaton and Wallace as "undoubtedly responsible for saving the lives of two of the passengers."

Split In House Develops Over Parity Fund

Delay Action on Sums Sought In Appropriations

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(AP)—Congressional action on farm and relief appropriations was complicated today by an apparent split in the hastily formed alliance of rural and urban house members advocating additional funds.

Chairman Sabath (D-Ill.) of the house rules committee announced his opposition to including $250,000,000 for farm parity payments in the $1,067,000,000 agriculture department bill.

Sabath previously was one of several city congressmen who had indicated willingness to support the $350,000,000 item—not recommended by the President—if farm members would vote for the $150,000,000 emergency WPA fund sought by urban representatives and the administration.

"The parity payments seem to me an unnecessary expenditure of a quarter billion dollars," Sabath said today. "That's no peanuts. Some of these boys have been squealing for economy on relief. I want to see how sincere they are."

Opponents of the parity fund expressed hope a sizeable portion of the farm-city group would follow Sabath's example, but sponsors remained confident the house would approve the money.

Economy advocates in the senate were pessimistic about the chances of holding down either the farm or the relief appropriation. Well-informed sources said Vice President Garner had dropped his demand that farm payments be curbed.

Administration leaders had hoped to clear the record-breaking agriculture appropriation bill through the house Saturday, but a majority rebelled after five hours of bickering and decided to quit for the day before the controversial parity provision was reached.

Final Action Delayed

The house had to postpone resuming debate today in order to consider several bills relating to the District of Columbia. This will delay final action until Tuesday or later.

Before the house recessed for the week-end, Republicans had succeeded in striking out of the farm bill more than $500,000 in special funds for control of tree and plant diseases and insects, their contention that these funds had not been authorized by separate legislation was upheld.

In regard to the relief bill, some members were discussing the possibility of emergency action to prevent a slash of 400,000 workers from WPA jobs next Monday.

One influential member of the senate appropriations committee, who has opposed the additional $150,000,000 fund, said he was considering proposing that the President be authorized to spend available relief money as needed in order to forestall the cut, already ordered by WPA officials.

Leaders believe that approval of extra money could not be completed this week. The bill is still before a house appropriations subcommittee, which it was reliably reported would vote for a compromise fund of $125,000,000 tomorrow.

The cut ordered for next Monday is the first of a series planned by the WPA unless more money is granted to supplement the $725,000,000 previously voted by congress to last until June 30. Another group of 200,000 is scheduled to go off the first week in May and 200,000 the first week in June.

Even if the full $150,000,000 is authorized some reductions in the rolls will have to be made, but administration officials say those cuts would be in line with seasonal increases in employment.

Weakley Will Offer Bill On Police Control

friends leaving nothing undone to strangle the bill.

The Jackson county representatives were furious in their resentment at the governor following his message. Many said it was simply another blow in Stark's warfare with the Kansas City "boss" and charged Stark with seeking to further his political ambitions, probably to run against Senator Harry S. Truman in 1940. This the governor hotly denied.

"There will be many arguments on both sides," Weakley's statement said. "While it will be argued that abuses exist under state control, I do not believe, nor do I believe the opponents of this bill will argue they exist to the extent we now have them in Kansas City, and as administered under so-called home rule up there."

"There frequently comes a time when abuses of law become so great, so unreasoning, so absolutely intolerable, that some action must be taken. * * *

"I cannot and do not agree with the casual judgment that this will injure the Democratic party, for I see nothing in this measure that will destroy the Democratic party in Jackson County."

"In my humble judgment, as well as the judgment of men older and more experienced in politics than I, and as expressed to me, it will bring those boys up there more closely together. The passage of this measure will also bring to the many fine and loyal Democrats of rural Missouri, a new and full realization of the straightforward manner in which we, their chosen representatives, here meet our party responsibilities."

"I am reminded of the statement made in an interview some two years ago, when the nominal head of the Democratic organization in Jackson County was asked how he felt about the permanent registration law then being considered."

"His reply was, 'I can get along under any law the rest of them can.' We are asking now that they come in under the same law governing other metropolitan areas, a law similar to that which governed them until six or seven years ago."

In his statement, Weakley indicated he would permit the bill to follow its usual course of reference to a committee without resorting to such an extraordinary procedure as resolving the entire house into a committee of the whole.

"I am inclined to let the measure follow the prescribed rules of this body," he said. "I do expect this measure to have a hearing and a fair one, and I intend to use every means at my disposal to force consideration of it by the house as a body, for it is only on the floor of this house that a measure of this importance and grave import to the state, can and should be finally decided."

Robs Chanute Bank of $4,860

CHANUTE, Kas., March 27.—(AP)—A bandit who threatened to "blow the place to hell" with dynamite bombs concealed in his clothing, robbed the First National bank of $4,860 in currency today. He escaped in a taxicab.

Identified by several persons as a former Chanute resident, who recently suffered amnesia, the man forced City Attorney Joe F. Balch, under threat of accepting "blown up," to accompany him to the bank.

There he confronted bank officials, demanded $10,000 in cash, threatened to detonate the dynamite, and finally agreed to accept whatever cash the bank officials had in the place.

Next he summoned a taxicab, took Balch as hostage and drove south from Chanute. He released the driver and Balch, unharmed, four miles from the city limits.

The robber required approximately an hour.

The man appeared first at Balch's office, across from the bank building, at about 10:30, and, showing Balch some wires he had wrapped around his body, said he was "wired with dynamite." He demanded the attorney accompany him to the bank.

"If you do as I tell you, you won't get hurt," he said. The two walked across the street, entered the bank and went to the desk of B. S. Cofer, vice-president. Here the robber demanded that all three go to the directors' room.

Once in that room he demanded $10,000. Cofer insisted there wasn't that much in the bank.

Then with permission of the robber Cofer telephoned to James A. Allen, bank president, whose offices are on another floor. Allen suggested a compromise, offering the man all the currency in the bank.

The man accepted, but threatened that if anyone called the police he would "blow the place to hell."

Rather than run the risk of a possible explosion, bank officials collected $4,860 in currency and gave it to the bandit, who then demanded that a cab be called. When it arrived, at about 11:30, he entered with Balch and drove away.

The taxicab driver, Ward Lee Scott, and Balch, were freed a few minutes later and the man drove southward in the cab. Police immediately organized pursuit.

Europeans Look On Vacations As "Period Of Health-Building"

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygieia, the Health Magazine

Every year millions of people in the United States take vacations during which they travel various distances in search of a change of scene and a change of habits of living. It has been estimated by Dr. Charles I. Singer that more than 35,000,000 people take part in these migrations and that the money spent on vacations every year will approximate 5,000,000,000.

Of course, 70 per cent of people take their vacations in the summer in contrast to 20 per cent who take theirs in winter, and 10 per cent in the fall and spring. Moreover, with the increased speed of modern life and with the increased facility for travel, many people now take two vacations each year.

Many people take their vacations in relationship to finding a different climate—going south in the winter and north in the summer, and going to the desert states in search of dryness and warmth.

Other people seek stimulation associated with rest, as is the case of the fisherman and the hunter. Most of us, however, do not take our vacations primarily for improvement of health, but rather for mental hygiene and relaxation.

Europeans have become accustomed to go to all sorts of health resorts not primarily for rest and relaxation, but for their health. In these resorts they drink waters with laxative effects, use baths of various types for specific health purposes, control the body weight by controlled diet and establish habits of sleep by exercise which in turn is followed by relaxation.

The European health resorts have been organized and developed for so many years that they include great numbers of physicians who are especially trained in the care of patients under resort conditions.

It is customary for the person coming to such a resort to have a complete physical examination and to be closely supervised during his stay. The baths, the amount of exercise, the massage and the other treatments are carefully prescribed.

In the United States we have not developed our resorts on a similar scale; yet the natural advantages of many places in the United States give us distinct advantages. There is nothing in Europe resembling Florida, California, Nevada, Colorado or Yellowstone Park. Moreover, most of the spas and health resorts of Europe can be duplicated in this country by the springs available in New York, Pennsylvania, Missouri, Indiana and many other states.

The need exists for suitable development of these resorts not according to European plans, but in order to give the best that American scientific medicine can offer for the utilization of these resorts to the utmost.

A hammock rope can support only about one-fourth the weight it could hold up if the pull were vertical.

What Did Washington Mean by Isolation?

NEARLY a century and a half after Washington delivered his Farewell Address and warned the young United States against the danger of entangling alliances, isolationists are using the first President's words to influence the present foreign policies of America.

They point to the current crisis in Europe and call on the support of Washington's words to contend that America has no place in the rising quarrel between the democracies and the dictatorships, that it should let Europe settle its own battles.

There is another school of thought, however, holding that Washington never meant that, that what the first President said applied only to the America of his day. For instance, Washington was afraid of sectionalism in the growing young nation and he foresaw possibilities of Americans in the new west casting their lot with the French or the British. He saw furthermore, the danger of whole states forming alliances with other governments for sectional purposes. Even as late as 1812 the Hartford convention was called to discuss possible alliance with England during the War of 1812, thus bearing out the very truth that Washington feared.

So there may be grave question today about what the father of the country meant. In any event his words are particularly timely. Washington is shown above on a U. S. stamp of the series of 1894, 2-cent carmine, enlarged.

Raising a Family

This Column Never Aims At Any One Mother

By Olive Roberts Barton

Last night a lady I know very well said: "When I read your stories I always think you mean me."

For an instant I was horrified, and then it struck me that, after all, it was the best compliment I could have had. I like to think that the things I write about are common problems with many mothers. And this, after all, was a comment of no mean value.

At the same time, I assured her, and I assure you, too, mother, that I really am extremely impersonal in my criticism or advice.

The problems I try to solve are often best approached by concrete stories, in short actual happenings. Yet I take good care never to refer directly to anyone I know.

From Real Life

Some of my examples, to be sure, come from real life. Often they are excerpts from my own experience and mistakes. Again they are taken from my mail. Occasionally, I reverse the story of my good friends and neighbors who have done wise things and in order to put over an idea, I make what is called in literary parlance an "obstacle" of it, which shows up the result of mistakes more forcibly than the facts themselves.

Not that I fabricate, really. But when I see a wise mother handling her children with intelligence, it recalls an incident in which the same situation was mishandled.

I have raised a family. I have made mistakes in such numbers that I look back and shudder. I see, as usual, that hindsight is a thousands times better than foresight. And from my own mistakes and experience, both at home and in the schoolroom, I have learned many of the things to be avoided. Also many of the things to be encouraged.

Could Have Done Better

Often I think I could do a better job with my grandchildren. Not that my own have disappointed me or given me any reason to regret my little strictnesses, but merely that I have had opportunity to note those things that worked and others that could have been improved upon.

So, dear mothers, when I write to you, half the time I am saying "Mrs. Smith" or "Mrs. Jones" when I mean Mrs. Barton. I am not infallible. However, adding to my personal experience the study of child nature in the abstract, I feel that the combination is honest.

There is one other item. Never do I betray a confidence. Not unless a mother asks me to write her problem in the paper. Even so, I change names, and dress up the story as a parallel experience that will convey the same lesson.

Battle Royal

BY V. T. HAMLIN

ALL RIGHT NOW, YOU DOPES, I'M RUMININ' MOO AN' WHAT I SAY GOES! I AM KING!

YOU'RE NOT! YOU'RE A THIEVIN' THUG!

MY GOSH! OLD GUZ HAS COME TO!

NEVER MIND, OOP!—SOME OF US ARE WITH YOU

LISTEN TO ME, YOU VARS! UNLESS YOU WANT TO SUFFER UNDER TH' RULE OF A MADMAN, WILL HIM BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE!

YEA, GUZ!

ENRAGED BY KING GUZZLE'S THEFT OF DINNY'S EGG, ALLEY OOP WHOPPED THE MONARCH RIGHT OUT FROM UNDER HIS CROWN—BUT IT SEEMS HE DIDN'T 'WHOP' QUITE HARD ENOUGH.

3-27

DOWN WITH OOP!

HAW! OOP YOU HAD YER CHANCE BUT YA MUFFED IT!

IF I EVER GIT TO YOU AGAIN, I WON'T MUFF UP OOP—THERE'S TOO MANY FOR US!

WE'RE WASHED UP OOP—THERE'S TOO MANY FOR US!

3-27

OUT YOU GO!

BY MERRILL BLOSSER

I DIDN'T LIKE YOU THE MINUTE I SAW YOU, AN' I KNEW IF I WAITED LONG ENOUGH YOU'D GIMME A REASON!

HEY, FROG FACE! COME HERE A MINUTE!

NOBODY CAN CALL ME FROG-FACE AND GET AWAY WITH IT!

ILL FIX THAT—

BY ROY CRANE

NOW, THAT'S NOT A REAL ART!

BLONDS! BLONDS! ALL HE CARES ABOUT IS BLONDS!

I TELL YOU, CAROL, I'LL NOT PUT UP WITH THE BOUNDER ANOTHER MOMENT.

YOU'RE UPSET, DADDY DEAR. YOU'D BETTER LIE DOWN AND LET ME ENTERTAIN HIM.

PLEASE EXCUSE DADDY, MR. TUBBS—HE ISN'T FEELING VERY WELL, MAKE YOURSELF AT HOME, AND IF THERE'S ANYTHING YOU WANT JUST ASK FOR IT.

NOW, THAT'S NOT A REAL HOSPITALITY, KIDDO.

YEAH, THAT'S RIGHT. SEND OUT TWO CASES OF CHAMPAGNE AND A FAN DANCER.

Timely Briefs From The Ball Training Camps

By The Associated Press.

LAKELAND, Fla.—Rudy York, the Detroit Tigers' slugger best known for home runs, is going after shorter hits, too, in exhibition games. His eight hits, including one circuit blow, in 21 turns at bat give him an average of .381 and nearly a 50-point lead over the next best hitter on the squad. He had 33 homers last season, but an average of .298.

ARCADIA, Fla.—Elden Auker's failure may force Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox to revise his plans to send pitchers the full route in training games. He had to yank Auker in the fourth frame yesterday after the Cincinnati Reds scored seven runs.

NEW ORLEANS—Viewing his favorites in four games was enough to make President Horace Stoneham of the New York Giants satisfied with their pennant prospects. "They certainly look good to me. And it's especially satisfying to see the swell condition Burgess Whitehead is in," Stoneham said before heading back to New York.

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex.—Claude Passeau, one of the Philadelphia Phillies' best bets on the pitching mound, is rounding into form. Disappointing in two earlier starts, Passeau hurled a no-run, two-hit five-inning trick against St. Antonio yesterday.

ORLANDO, Fla.—The surprise of the Washington Senators training thus far is Reno Montegudo, a fat little Cuban southpaw with a wide curve. Considered lightly at the start of camp, Montegudo has worked seven hitless innings in two games.

BRADENTON, Fla.—Paul Dean, the St. Louis Cardinals' sore-arm question mark, had a bad inning against the New York Yankees Saturday, but asserted today "the arm feels so good I could go out there and pitch even harder today." He believes a couple more starts will fit him for real action.

LAKELAND, Fla.—This talk about weakness in the Cincinnati Reds' infield got Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox aroused. He particularly praised Shortstop Billy Myers after yesterday's game, saying, "Myers' performance was the greatest I have seen in any game. He made three miraculous stops and turned each into a double play. If he is mediocre in your league I'd hate to be playing there."

NEW ORLEANS—Big Jeff Heath is temporarily, at least, riding the Cleveland Indians' bench. Manager Oscar Vitt refused to say whether his removal from the lineup yesterday was because of a lackadaisical attitude toward practice games, but previously had complained publicly about Heath's failure to hustle and to try to remedy fielding faults.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—The St. Louis Browns are taking a two-day rest from exhibition games and Manager Fred Haney thinks the time out is just what his charges need. They lost their first exhibition game of the season yesterday to Toledo's Mudhens, which Haney managed last season.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Hal Reiser, the Brooklyn Dodgers' rookie shortstop who has a perfect record of eight hits in eight times at bat, drew an assignment to start at second base today against the New York Yankees. Since Manager Leo Durocher intends to hold down short himself again this season, observers saw the switch as an indication the Dodgers may choose to keep Reiser on the squad instead of shipping him to some minor league team for seasoning.

LAKE CHARLES, La.—Buck Ross, hindered by a sore arm in the latter part of the 1938 campaign, shows signs of becoming one of the Philadelphia Athletics' standouts this year. He looked good although giving three hits in a four-inning turn against Jersey City yesterday.

LOS ANGELES—Chico Bryant, the No. 2 man of the Chicago Cubs pitching staff last season, was assigned to his first exhibition start against the Los Angeles Angels today. Because he was slow to round into form Manager Gabby Hartnett gave him nearly a month for conditioning.

PASADENA, Calif.—Manager Jimmy Dykes is elated by the way his Chicago White Sox are slugging. Hank Steinbacher is setting the pace with 16 hits in 34 times at bat for an average of .444, and Jo Kuhl has a mark of 406, Luke Appling .395, Eric McNair .389 and Mickey Owen .361.

• The Sport Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK, March 27.—(P)—Scoop: Notre Dame's basketball contract in the Garden has expired and probably won't be renewed because the Irish (not Ned) don't want it to be. Bill Werber is spreading the news in Florida that Connie Mack is getting ready to quit baseball. Lexington (6) turf experts already have tagged a filly named "Be Like Mom" as next year's derby winner. Latest unconfirmed flash has Francis Schmidt going out and Jock Sutherland going in as football coach at Ohio State.

Today's Guest Star
L. C. Davis, St. Louis Post-Dispatch: "Jack Roper, who fights Joe Louis in April, didn't receive honorable mention indicating the N. B. A. didn't think enough of Jack to rank him with the rankiest."

Dixie Specials: The Giants went for that fancy New Orleans grub in a big way, but not all of the Athletics. One of Connie Mack's young men went into Antoine's and said: "Gimme a mess of meat and potatoes and a bottle of beer." Zeke Bonura still gets fan mail from Chicago panning the White Sox for letting him go. The guy who really talked Frankie Pytlak out of his one-man strike was—of all guys—Johnny Allen. Ad haws: Walter Johnson's radio sponsors told him to go to Florida and get the background of a training camp. Of course Walter's been in only 24 of 'em.

Hold It, Hold It!
Don't shoot the old Iron Hoss yet. Andy Coakley, who coached Lou Gehrig at Columbia, says not to worry about Lou; he's going to have one of his best years.

Sports Cocktail: Dick Harlow went down to Fort Worth to watch Texas Christian pass in spring practice and came away with both eyes bulging. The Norwich (Vt.) University golf team will go to Columbia (S. C.) for spring practice. Jack Miley says in the New York Post that what Max Schmeling really came here for was to get the German rights to "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs"—which he got. Audrey Peppie is showing ice show customers here stuff La Henie hasn't dared tackle in three years.

Historic Occasion
They're going to tear down the chicken wire stretched across the front of the right field pavilion at Sportsman's Park, St. Louis. That was the first and last step taken to try to stop the Yankees.

Rue De Sockerue: Barney Ross will apply for a license to second Davey Day, his former stablemate, against Henry Armstrong Friday night. Tony Canzoneri and Eddie Brink play a repeat performance at the Hipp tomorrow night with the refugee fund cutting in on the receipts. Wish Jeff Willard would make up his mind. Last week he picked Galento. Today it's Louis. Tomorrow it may be Roper. His pals around the New Orleans fair grounds collected $400 for Pal Moran, the old lightweight, seriously ill with T. B.

Layton Bids For Second Place

Johnny Layton, Sedalia's greatest one-man advertiser, today plays Allen Hall at Chicago, two games in the three-cushion round robin billiard championship.

He split even with Tiff Denton last Friday with 50-47 for Layton and Denton 48-50.

Layton is holding tight to third place over the remaining field of seven, and hopes to be able to crash through by April 7 to take second position, it being hardly possible to root out Joe Chamaco from the title honors who has a good lead over all contestants.

The Sedalia has already issued a challenge to meet Chamaco as soon as the tournament is over in a 600 point billiard match for the national championship, the date and place of play to be announced later. Incidentally Layton has seldom been beaten in a long game match such as this. Layton's challenge also carries to Jay Bozeman, should he come through and slip past Chamaco.

Chamaco and Bozeman are shooting close games and are close in the standing.

The standings to date:

	W.	L.	Pct.	Hr.	Bz.
Joe Chamaco	42	14	.750	13	31

Westminster Speaker

Dr. Francis B. Sayre, assistant secretary of state, Washington, D. C., has been chosen to deliver the third series of lectures at Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., provided for by the John Findley Green Foundation. Dr. Sayre, whose subject will be "Reciprocal Trade Treaties," will deliver three lectures on April 20 and 21.

The John Findley Green Foundation was endowed by Mrs. John F. Green to provide speakers of international eminence for a yearly series of lectures on economic, political and social changes of international concern at the church-supported men's school.

K. C. Firemen Will Play Sedalia Merchants

A light practice was conducted Sunday afternoon at Liberty Park by the Sedalia Merchants. More than thirty boys reported for workouts, but had little to do because of the wet diamond.

Ted Micklund, Kansas City, was at the park and discussed the scheduling of a game with the Merchants against the K. C. Fire Department. Manager Seigel said he would probably use the team for the first night baseball game.

A number of out-of-town boys were in attendance for practice and indicated they would return this week for the daily practice.

New Mosquito Deadly Menace

NEW YORK, March 27.—(P)—

A new and deadly mosquito immigrant, who hitch-hiked from Africa, was described in a Rockefeller Foundation report today as a greater potential menace to western civilization than a Martian invasion.

Dr. Raymond B. Fosdick, president of the foundation, said the invader—the malaria-bearing anopheles gambiae species—had killed 10 per cent of the population in sections of the state of Ceara in Brazil.

Fosdick said the foundation had set aside $100,000 in 1939 to fight the mosquito plague, which he said had caused 50,000 malaria cases in the Jaguaribe valley of Brazil in 1938, striking down 90 per cent of the residents.

"In some parts crops were not planted and salt production was greatly reduced because of lack of labor," Fosdick said, in his annual report.

"It is estimated that x x x practically every person in these affected areas will be on government relief in 1939."

The report said the anopheles gambiae, formerly found only in Central Africa, apparently had been carried to South America by airplanes or naval destroyers between Dakar in West Africa and Natal, Brazil.

The mosquito was first discovered in Natal in 1930. The foundation's report said if the scourge spread beyond the well-watered Parnahyba and Sao Francisco valleys, "it is feared it would be impossible to prevent its spread to a large part of South, Central and perhaps even North America."

Claims Championship As Eater of Goldfish

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 27.—(P)—

A Harvard sophomore, Irving M. Clark, 20, of Seattle, Wash., claimed the goldfish eating championship today.

Clark reported he ate 24 live goldfish in a little more than five minutes yesterday, using orange juice as chaser after each fish. "I could have eaten 50," he declared.

Clark was spurred on, he said, by a telephone call from Frank Pope of Franklin and Marshall College who bet him $50 he couldn't eat more than Pope. Pope is reported to have downed a mere three.

Bass Leaps Into Boat of A Fisherman

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 27.—(P)—

Dr. H. B. Murray, former chief of the Indiana game conservation department, reported today a fisherman doesn't even need a rod and reel to catch bass in Lake Pleasant, near here.

While he was angling yesterday, a big bass leaped into his boat.

"In 30 years of fishing," Dr. Murray said, "this is my first experience of having a bass leap into the boat." Another fisherman reported a similar occurrence.

435,000 IN MISSOURI

Through this telephone, and more than 435,000 others like it in Missouri homes and offices, Missourians talk about corn and wheat, about machinery and supplies... about who will make a fourth at bridge, and what the doctor said to Henry.

To clear the way for these calls, 6,700 telephone people work along the lines, or in the 121 offices that are the crossroads of the company's 2 1/4 million mile network of telephone wires in Missouri. About 10 million dollars in wages, more than 3 1/4 million dollars in federal, state, and local taxes, help make up the total of 20 1/2 million dollars this company spent last year to operate its Missouri telephone system.

These figures are big because the telephone company has a big job to do in Missouri: the job of giving fast, dependable telephone service at low cost to the user.
